ANNAPOLIS, Md. (June 4, 2024) — Comptroller Brooke E. Lierman Monday afternoon continued her Take a Look with Brooke tour with visits to businesses and business incubators in Prince George's County.

The Comptroller traveled to Upper Marlboro to tour the Innovation Station Business Incubator (ISBI), powered by the Prince George's County Economic Development Corporation. The incubator features collaborative and co-working spaces as well as other programs, amenities, and initiatives that encourage entrepreneurial growth and business development.

"It's great to visit incubators like the ISBI (Innovation Station Business Incubator) because they're doing such important work at bringing in our entrepreneurs, connecting them with resources, and then helping them grow and graduate and become successful long term. It is an important part of our economy," Comptroller Lierman said.

Comptroller Lierman then traveled to Watkins Regional Park in Upper Marlboro to meet with urban farmers and leaders of ECO City Farms, a non-profit urban teaching and learning farm with four locations in Prince George's County. There are 10 farm businesses participating in the incubator program at Watkins Regional Park. The incubator program provides experienced urban farmers with the opportunity, infrastructure, and space to grow their businesses.
